

Catechism series:

On Mans role in the world

From the Catechism of the Summa by Fr. Thomas Pègeus

Is it only the good or evil spirits that God employs in the government of the world?

No, it is not only the good or evil spirits that God employs in the government of the world.

What other beings are there which concur in this government?

All the cosmic agents whose activities are brought into play by God help also towards the accomplishment of His rule.

Is then the whole course of nature thus in the hands of God for the ruling of the world?

Yes, the whole course of nature with all its laws is in the hands of God for the ruling of the world.

It is then for the realization of the plans of God and for the help thereof, that every day the sun rises, that day follows night, that the seasons come and go, and this in such order that nothing ever disturbs the coming and the going of the days, the months, the years, and the centuries?

Yes, it is for the fulfilment of the designs of God and for help thereof that the sun rises each day, that night follows day, that the seasons follow each other in order, and this in such a way that nothing ever disarranges the coming and the going of the days, the months, the years, and the centuries.

May one say that it is for man and for his welfare that God has thus ordained and maintains in a regular order the course of the world of nature?

Yes, one may and indeed must say that it is for man and for his welfare that God has thus ordained and maintains in a regular order the course of the world of nature.

Man then is the creature for whom God in some wise has arranged that all other creatures should be subservient to his needs?

Yes, man is the creature for whom God in some wise has arranged that all other creatures should be subservient to his needs.

Why has God thus acted towards man?

God has acted thus towards man because man is the weakest of His creatures who has need of all other things for the good of his soul and body.

Can man, weak though he be, also help in the action of God towards the government of the world?

Yes, in spite of his weakness, man also can help in a very great degree in the activity of God in the government of the world

How can man thus concur with the action of God in the government of the world?

Man can concur with the action of God in the government of the world in co-operating himself for the good of man.

In what way can man co-operate himself for the good of man?

Man co-operates towards the good of man in being used by God as an instrument for the welfare of the soul and body of man.
